Adventure, outdoor and equine activities involve significant elements of risk to person and property including the potential for injury and death. The outdoor environment including weather, wildlife, domestic animals, people and terrain is never totally predictable and dangerous situations may develop. Participants and guests are solely responsible for their own actions and well being as well as that of their animals and property. Ranch programs and activities include individual choice. Even when few choices appear to exist, participants and guests are to consider their options and choose their own level of involvement. The terms of your participation and/or presence at Surprise Valley Ranch include your acknowledgement and acceptance of all risks and hazards that may develop including the potential for injury, loss of property or loss of life.

Surprise Valley Ranch is a working equine and cattle ranch. New Mexico state law (NM ST § 42-13-1-5) provides that no person, corporation or partnership is liable for personal injuries to or for the death of a rider (or other participant) that may occur as a result of the behavior of equine animals while engaged in any equine activities, and that the rider (or other participant) agrees to engage in the equine activity at his own risk.

Your signature indicates that you have read and understood these conditions; acknowledge and accept the risks and responsibilities of your involvement, that you are prepared for this program, and that you will abide by all stated provisions. A guardian's signature is required for participants and guests under 18 years of age.
